David Thomas,
President

Greetings, Musik-Stadt members! Our 2025 Concours d'Automobile at 111 Motorcars is on track for this Saturday, May 17th, with 59 cars currently registered. This should be an awesome display of Porsches, and, as always, a great time with fellow club members. Mike Moody and his committee have done an outstanding job of planning and preparation, and I hope to see many of you there!

I am also happy to announce that two tickets to this year's Indianapolis 500 have been donated to the club and will be given away as a door prize, along with two $500 gift certificates from Porsche of Nashville, and other door prizes.

Have you seen the announcement of the Exclusive Manufaktur Heritage Design

Porsche 911 Spirit 70 limited edition? As a member of the Boomer generation, I can remember seeing then-new 911s in very similar livery, and this new model hits on all six cylinders for me, especially the exterior color palette and larger-than-life "911" on the bonnet.

Speaking of new Porsche models, the latest YouTube video from Nick Murray features the new 911 GTS T-Hybrid model. We know that Porsche regularly under reports HP and torque numbers. He and other reviewers are getting 2.5 second 0-to-60 times and 10.5 second quarter miles, and 205 mph top speeds on the Autobahn. And every one of those numbers is in line with the 911 Turbo S! Could Porsche be underreporting to keep the GTS from appearing to compete with the Turbo S on paper? Sure looks that way!

I've recently added a valved Soul Performance sport exhaust to my 991.2 Carrera and just love the resulting sound of the car. The car did not have factory PSE, so this model of sport exhaust uses vacuum to switch modes, and it always starts in Sport mode. Soul Performance provides two push-button key fobs to change modes, and they also allow those functions to be tied to two of my garage door buttons above the rearview mirror. Another plus for me was that neither the rear bumper nor the exhaust tips required replacement.

Don't forget to sign up early for our June drive to Mount Pleasant on June 14th, where we will drive to Mount Pleasant and enjoy lunch at the Mount Pleasant Grille, with plenty of beautiful scenery.

Be safe out there!

SG Editor's Letter

A Nice Morning Drive

Happy May, everyone! First, let me apologize for the lateness of this month's edition. June should be out on time and include all the Concours d'Musik-Stadt goodness we just experienced at 111 Motorsports. Thanks go out to Mike Moody, who really put on a great show this year! And to Jeremy Scates who let us use the facility to put on this year's show.

One reason why the newsletter is a bit late is that I experienced South Carolina for the first time. As fate would have it, on the way back I saw something that I don't see much of these days; someone actually driving their old 356 out on the open highway (YMMV). I remember looking for cars in the St. Louis Post Dispatch when I was 15 to try and find that special car that would not only be my first car, but something that would stand out in the parking lot of my high school. Back then, in the 80's, used 356s were going cheap in the St. Louis area. You could pick up a well-loved-on specimen for $3k-$5k... and sometimes cheaper. Granted, most of them were probably rust-buckets or had more plastic filler than a Hollywood star in their 30's... but, still! The thought of driving an old Porsche to and from school/practice/work would definitely be the ultimate dream! Well, as avid readers of this column know, my first car wasn't a 356, but another air-cooled 4-cylinder German car. Seeing the 356 pattering down the Interstate got me thinking about my old air-cooled days and how I would love to take my Ghia out for just one more spin around town. Now, I have to just make do with my 911 cabriolet.

Für Ihre Gesundheit

Stuttgart Market Letter

by David K. Whitlock

Even though the Florida auctions were split between February and March this year, March 2025 still managed to top last year's performance in both unit volume and total dollar volume. A total of 615 Porsches crossed the block, generating $57,521,638 in sales, compared to 608 cars and $52,660,172 in March 2024. The only metric that slipped was the sell-through rate, which dipped slightly from 71% to 70%, but considering the increased volume, it was still a strong showing overall.

We got a bit ahead of ourselves in last month's article, having already covered Florida Car Week, which included top results from both the February and March sales. But looking at non-Amelia March results, there were still a few noteworthy highlights. Leading the way was a 2011 911 GT3 RS 4.0 that hammered at $749,000—a strong figure considering the car had 4,000 miles on the odometer. Just behind it was a 1991 911 Carrera 4, converted to RUF RCT Evo specification by RUF

Automobile in Canada, which brought $661,500. Both results underscore continued buyer enthusiasm for low-production, driver-focused cars, especially those with factory or sanctioned RUF provenance.

Keeping with the GT3 theme, the

The 992 GT3 RS market continued to slide over the last thirty days. Bids for standard GT3 RS models now fall between $315,000 and $375,000, down from the $400,000+ range seen earlier in the year. Even Tribute to Carrera RS-equipped cars, which previously commanded a meaningful premium, weren't immune: a 92-mile example hammered at $424,242, while another with 1,100 miles brought $405,888—a noticeable drop compared to the $487,500 we saw for a similar car last summer. That said, not all was lost—one Paint-to-Sample, sub-1,000-mile example broke through the resistance, bringing $500,000 and proving that rarity and spec can still overcome broader market softness.

Meanwhile, the 996 Turbo Coupe market quietly delivered one of its strongest months in recent memory. Of the eleven examples on offer, only two failed to sell, and every successful bid cleared the $50,000 mark. The top performer was an X50-equipped 2002 911 Turbo—a 6-speed car with just 11,000 miles, finished in Lapis Blue Metallic over Savannah Beige Full Leather—which sold for an impressive $128,000. With clean, low-mileage cars becoming increasingly rare, it's clear that the 996 Turbo is continuing its slow and steady climb from undervalued to collector-worthy.

The 356 market also posted a solid showing, with 10 out of the 14 cars on offer finding homes. Leading the pack was a 1958 356A 1600S Cabriolet, refinished in its original shade of Ruby Red over a reupholstered Black leather interior. A matching-numbers example, it sold for $190,000. While that result sits around the average for 2025, it marks a notable improvement over last year, when the 356 segment appeared much softer.

Stuttgart Market Letter

Overall, March 2025 followed up Florida Car Week with solid momentum, delivering both strong volume and a number of encouraging results across generations. While not every segment is trending upward, there's still real strength in the market—especially for the right car, with the right spec, at the right time.
